

Jason Boud's Car History

Escort, Dark blue, My Grand Fathers old car, you can't beat a mk2 Escort for your first car, rear wheel drive and 1100cc, wicked, got squashed by some twat in a Citroen. BHP 55

Cavalier Estate, Silver, drunk more oil than I do beer, the car I learnt that you should never spill milk in. BHP 90

1275GT, Yellow, sold for profit with wet paint and a rusty subframe. BHP 60

2200 SC, White, Other Grandad's old car, restored by my folks for my 21st, bright orange interior as chosen by my dear Grandma, lush. BHP 90

323i, Metallic blue, Dad's old motor, lowered and 'zorsted as you do, very tail happy ;-). BHP 143

205 CTi, Black, Jane threw up in this one, charming. BHP 115

Quattro Coupe, Dark blue, Great noise, handled like the QE2. BHP 165

Fiesta, Dark blue, a thing of beauty if ever there was one, oh no my mistake it was a turd of the highest order. BHP 60

E30 M3, Red, Imported from Holland by me, some say it was orange, all I know it went like a rocket, still missed. BHP 215

E30 M3 Sport Evo, Black, Bought then found out it was a cat C, went like a quicker rocket than the first one, very rare, only 600 made. BHP 240

The 7 BRG, Still got it, 3 engines later, it just gets quicker, loved by children and older gentlemen, not quite the fanny magnet I was after but hey this one's a keeper. BHP 160

Leon Cupra R, Silver, Stolen, written off in car chase involving a helicopter and 7 police cars 2 of which got written off, clocked at 120mph on the hard shoulder of the M40. BHP 210

944 S2, Red, Still got this one too, can't bring myself to let it go! Not as good as the M3's though. BHP 210

230E, Dark blue, Lasted 3 weeks, lack of mechanical sympathy firmly to blame. BHP 130

Signum, Silver, No comment other than dull dull dull, much like the Chavalier estate in that respect. BHP 120

320Cd, Red, Has factory optional indicators, freshly remapped for added smiles per mile. BHP 180

Landie, Green, In bits on the drive but still tax exempt and very cool, a big boys toy.
BHP 155

Saab, Red, Pure body kitted 80's kitsch. BHP 195

Total BHP 2593

Average BHP 144
